Great Popular Demonstration.

Mr. Kruger's arrival here, it is expected, will be the occasion for a great popular demonstration, but the formal proceedings and receptions will not be invested with the importance which many hold the occasion to warrant, owing to the absentation from them of the prefect, mayor and other functionaries in their official capacity,

GOV. LIND WOULD HOLD HIS SEAT

Contest by Governor of Minnesota Against Republican Whom Returns Show is Victor.

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 21.-It is Understood that Governor Lind has decided to contest the election of Samuel R. VanSant. On the face of the returns Van Sant has a plurality of about 2,500; but the democrats contend that there have been such irregularities and errors in counting that a recount would show a clear plurality for Lind.

Governor Lind returned from a western trip today, and it is said that at a conference of democratic leaders it was decided that a contest should be made. Just what shape the proposed contest will take is not known. Governor Lind may decide to refuse to relinquish his office when his present term expires, which would throw the burden of the contest upon Van Sant, or he may himself go into court and demand a recount of the ballots

COTTON GROWERS IN SESSION

Interstate Association Convention Opens in Macon Today.

Macon, Ga., Nov. 21.-The Interstate Cotton Growers' association convention was called to order here at ten o'clock by President Harvie Jordan of the Georgia association. The convention is representative of every section of the great cotton belt of the United States, every cotton producing state being represented by Missouri and Oklahoma, which have not yet been organized into the interstate association. It is believed that as a result of this conference a strong interstate organization, with a central headquarters, will be formed. The object of the association is two fold: First, to enable the farmers and bankers so to co-operate that the immediate marketing of the crop may be prevented, and, second, to arrange for the better collection of cotton statistics upon which the growers may depend.

LEADERS AGREE ON A NEW ARMY BILL

Regular Force of 65,000-Number May Be Increased to 100,000 in Case of Emergencies.

Washington, Nov. 21.-An ment has been reached which it is understood will determine the character of the army organization bill. A regular establishment of 65,000 men is provided for, with power in the hands of the president to increase his force to 160,000 men whenever he thinks such increase is necessary.

This is the understanding that has been reached between the administration and the chairman of the military committees of both houses of congress. The proposition meets with the approval of the president's advisers.

The administration is not at all discouraged over the outlook in the Philippines, but realizes that the guerilla campaign may continue for some months, and a large force of troops will be needed to keep the insurgents moving. The tactics which General MacArthur is pursuing is to give the guerilla bands no rest, but to keep them runnig from one point to another. In this way it is hoped to tire them out in the course of time.

BETTER PLACE FOR BABCOCK.

Slated for Position on the Committee of Ways and Means.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 21.-The indications are that Representative Babcock will finally reach the place on the Committee of Ways and Means which he coveted a year ago when the present house was organized. There is a vacancy on the committee which properly belongs to the Northwest, caused by the retirement of Mr. Dolliver of Iowa, who has been appointed a senator from that state. The present meeting here of republicommittee can members of the. brought up a discussion of filling this vacancy and it is said that several members expressed themselves favorable to Mr. Babcock's aspirations.

It provides that a saloon license may not be granted to a man that has not held such a license during the year previous to the application. The theory is that saloons should be intrusted only to those that have had experience. The real object is to bring about practical prohibition when all the present saloonkeepers are dead. The bill has the indorsement of many of the temperance organizations of the state.

BOERS PREPARE TO RESUME THE WAR

PLANNING A COUNTER MOVE TO CENSUS SHOWS INCREASE OF BRITISH TACTICS.

Burghers to Active Hostility-British Public Not in Sympathy with Latest Movement, for Which Politics is Largely Responsible.

London, November 2.—Commandant Dewet is not in the least alarmed by General Kitchner's bloodthirsty plan of conquering the Boers by devastating their homes and maltreating their wives and children. On the contrary the plucky burgher has decided on a few drastic measures himself. Having first proved that with a handful of men he can easily whip a regiment of Britishers, Dewet insists upon keeping up the war until the continental powers are forced to come to their aid for humanity's sake, Accordingly, as a counter move to Kitchener's and Robert's fire and sword tactics, Dewet has ordered all burghers to rejoin their commandoes on pain, so the British censored report says, of death.

Means to Keep British Busy. Since they are able to do so much damage to the British forces and railroads with only a fragment of an army, Dewet believes that with force of 10,000 or even 5,000, he can more than repay the British for their breach of the rules of civilized warfare.

A government official was yesterday the reason for ordering out all the war correspondents said: "Kitchener has a lot of dirty work to do and the less said about it the better."

This is the way that the govern ment expects to justify its Weyler tacites, but it is doubtful if the British public will support it.

Public Not in Sympathy. Admitting that General Kitchener has a serious task in trying to put on the finishing touches of conquering the Boers, the people at home are pretty apt to say, "Carry on the war like civilized soldiers and not like savages even if it does take longer,"

If this sentiment does not come voluntarily it is not stretching matters powers may force it, and that Kruger's arrival at Marseilles is most

TO EXTEND FREE RURAL DELIVERY

First Assistant Postmaster Johnson an Ardent Advocate of Expanding the Service

Washington, D. C., Nov. 21 .- An enthusiastic plea for a wide expansion of rural free delivery is made in the annual report of W. M. Johnson, first assistant postmaster general. He says that the extraordinary developements of this system during the last twelve months under the stimulus of appropriations of $450,000 for the fiscal year 1899-1900, and the $1,750,000 for the fiscal year of 1900-1901, is conclusive showing that hereafter it must be a permanent and expanding feature of the postal administration. The service can now be extended as swiftly as congress may direct or by the more primitive methods.

This change, Mr. Jackson believes, can be effected without excessive cost to the government.

when the roads are right. Resolutions were passed urging congress to appropriate $150,000 in the coming budget for public road inquiry, and urging upon the postmaster genermorning when the "Napoleon" sold a ommend rural free delivery that the good hard road.

The collapse seems sudden, but in reality it is a slow process. The stomach and organs of digestion and nutrition are diseased, the nourishment in the food eaten is only partially extracted and food eaten is only partially extracted and imperfectly assimilated. The blood becomes impure; the very fount of life is poisoned, and some day all the faculties and functions go on a strike. That's collapse. NOT AN ADVERTISEMENT.

This is not an advertisement, but simply a word of encouragent to young men. When Governor Shaw of Iowa, spoke at the opera house last proud to call "home." month he said: "I will guarantee, in thirty days, to find a position for any honest young man who will satisfy me that he can do any one thing well." The statement seems a little startling, and yet with the present demand for all kinds of labor, the governor was perfectly safe in his proposition. He didn't say that he would find a place for every young man who might apply, however honest and intelligent he might be. The requisite was simply honesty and ability to do one thing well.

Too many young men make a failure of life, because they waste their energies in trying to master too many kinds of business, and as a result, they never become expert in any one thing. Life is too short, and the average brain too small to grasp more than one kind of business or profession, and thoroughly master it.

Better be a first-class chimney sweep, up-to-date and hustling for ranks of Wisconsin publishers. It may be all right in a Sunday school to say "I'll try," or "I'll do plating changing the name of Lincoln the best I can." but life is no Sunday county, out of respect for its illustrischool, and the watchword of success is "I can and I will." The confidence that prompts this strong assertion is not conceit. It is simply self-reliance based on the ability to do one thing

It's the doers, and not simply the triers, that this busy age demands, and the supply is not equal to the

There was established in this city some twenty-five or thirty years ago, an institution of learning, where young men were taught to do one thing and do it well. This institution has been maligned and slandered more than any enterprise in the city, and principally because it has been successful, and that for many years amounted to almost a crime in Janesville. A man who had the audacity to succeed to any marked degree had no license to live in the Bower City. By the way, this spirit, and it has more to curse the city and retard its called to account, growth than any other one thing. a little common sense. M is rapidly disappearing.

This institution, in spite of opposition and adverse criticism, went steadily on about its business. Young men flattering comment to Spanish rule. were brought in from all parts of the country and given an opportunity to work out for themselves a destiny, furnished. As a result, an army of railroad men, from presidents down along the line to station agents and floor. operators, are today filling positions of trust because the Valentine School of Telegraphy taught them to do one thing well and then followed them out ing the late campaign, and as a reinto life and found the opportunity for them to do it—a thing that no other school of any kind in the state attempts to do. That is practical education applied.

The school today has about one hun. dred students, and every one of them could be placed in active work in sixty days if able to do the one thing well that they are trying to master. The school is besieged by half a dozen of the leading western railroads for men, and the supply is totally inade-

President McKinley did a gracious thing in inviting his cabinet to remain with him during his second administration, he could not do less under the circumstances. It was deserved recognition, but because of this fact it does not follow that vacancies in the cabinet will not occur. OVER 300 VISITORS TO Y. M. C. A. CONVENTION.

Assembly Opens a Five Days' Session in Janesville Tomorrow Afternoon-Citizens Seem Backward About Offering Entertainment-The Program for Tomorrow.

The names of delegates who will attend the annual Y. M. C. A. convention in this city on Thursday and Friday, Saturday and Sunday are pouring in on Secretary J. C. Kline from all directions. Up to this afternoon over one hundred and fifty had signified their intention of attending this con-

Arrangements are being made to accommodate three hundred delegates and it is likely that the number will run over that figure. The capacity of the building will be taxed to its utmost to entertain the visiting guests. It was expected that a large number of the delegates could be quartered among the people of the town, who would be pleased to help the association in this way. Secretary Kline has been greatly disappointed in the number of people that have offered to entertain the visiting delegates. They are all gentlemen and no one who can help the cause in this way should refuse to take a delegate for a day or two.

A large majority of the delegates will not get here until Friday evening, a large number of them being college students who will not leave their colleges until the studies of the week are ended.

Milwaukee will send forty delegates, Madison twenty-three, Stoughton, nine Chicago thirteen, Waukesha five, Ripon five, Ashland four, Eagle four and a large number of towns will send two and three. The program for tomorrow will be as follows:

of ducks in Janesville Receipts have been very large so far this week, but the birds are poor and thin, carrying less flesh as a rule than they do in the spring. This is due to the high stage of the water in this state, the food on which the ducks subsist being consolation to the game birds that Dedrick Bros. frequent the lakes and rivers in Wisconsin. During the greater part of market, but the sudden change in the temperature a week ago brought the northern birds down and the shooting has been excellent since that time. Bluebills and redheads have been unusually plentiful, and the hunters coming in now are bringing good-sized bags of mallards with them, while the canvass back have gone south and are very scarce.

Dead to Go By Express.

A new monopoly is about to be formed. At least that is what the plans, which are to be discussed at the meeting next week in St. Louis, of the New Transcontinental Passenger as sociation, in regard to the transportation of corpses, will amount to. The plans, as set forth by a number of traffic officials of lines which operate west of Chicago, are for discontinuing of the carrying of dead bodies as baggage, and to turn all the business over to the different express companies. Under the present conditions a corpse in transit must be accompanied by some person, who is expected to look after it, as soon as it is lifted out of the baggage car.

ence of Jefferson Davis in this state when it was yet part of the great Northwest territory, has just disappeared. It was a short piece of road running through the grounds of Nashota house at Nashota. It was known to the old settlers as the Jeff Davis Road for the reason that it was surveyed and laid out by him when he was a regular army officer here in the days Wisconsin was a part of Michigan. The road in question ran along the south shore of the upper Nashotah Lake. It was supposed that the road had been vacated years ago.

DIES IN CHARLESTOWN, N. H.,

After a Season in an Asylum and Under a Special Guardian-Leaves un Estate Valued at $200,000 - No Relatives Living.

Concord, N. H., Nov. 21.-Charles H Hoyt, world-famous author of the Hoyt farce-comedies, died at his home in Charlestown, this state, at 7:15 last evening of paresis. His illness dates back two years to the death in New York Oct, 2, 1898, of his second wife Caroline Miskel, one of the greatest beauties of her time. After her death Mr. Hoyt gave no care to his health and soon laid the foundation for the terrible disease which caused his death. His malady did not become apparent, however, until the spring of 1899, when, in Washington, his last play, "A Dog in the Manger," proved an utter fallure. It was then seen that the author was in no condition, mentally or physically, for work, and friends placed him in the care of physleians. He grew no better, and last summer he was incarcerated in an asylum for the insane at Hartford, Conn.

Violent Just Before Death. For the last few days Mr. Hoyt's mania had assumed a violent form, and it was evident that the end was fast approaching. Monday his condition was such that it was not thought he could live through the day, but he rallied toward evening and seemed so much better that his guardian, Mr. Lyford, left him and started for Boston. While en route he was summoned back to Charlestown, and arrived there tribute to organized labor by declaring just in time to close the eyes of his friend in death. Mr. Lyford says it is impossible to say when the funeral will be held,

Once Fromlaent in Politics. Mr. Hoyt's death has greatly shocked this city, where he was born and had spent much time. As a member of the legislature in 1893 and 1895 from the town of Charlestown he was prominent in New Hampshire politics, and was afterward urged to accept a congressional nomination. Charles Hale Hoyt was born in Concord, N. H., July 26, Hoyt's Estate Worth $200,000.

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 21.-Frank Mc-Kee last night received a telegram announcing C. H. Hoyt's death. He was witnessing the show at Ford's theater, but rushed at once to his hotel, packed his valise and took the train for New York. Otis Harlan says Mr. Hoyt's estate is probably worth about $200,-000. There are now ten Hoyt shows on the road, and from these $1,500 a week in royalties is being derived. Mr. Hoyt had no heirs. Mrs. E. N. JOWERS.

There is no use talking—a baby in the house is the link that binds husband and wife together. Nothing is sadder than fruitless wedlock. The prattling and cooing of the little ones offset a thousand times the occasional worries and trials of life. When a wife is barren, there is a derangement somewhere in the genital organs, caused by one or more of those common disorders known as "female troubles". Wine of Cardui is the remedy. It puts the organs of generation in a strong and healthy condition, fitting the wife for the sacred duty of reproducing her kind. During the period of gestation the entire system of the expectant mother is built up to withstand the ordeal of labor, and when the little one makes its advent it is lusty and strong, well-fitted to grow to maturity in perfect health. The mother, too, passes through the trial with little nain and no dread. Wine of Cardui is truly a wonderful medicine for women.

PITY AND BEAUTY

The most beautiful thing, in the world, is the baby, all dimples and joy. The most pitiful thing is that same baby, thin and in pain.

The dimples and joy have gone, and left hollows and fear. It is fat that is gone; gone with it, comfort and color and curve; all but pity and love.

The little one gets no fat from her food: has had none for weeks: she is living on what she had stored in that She is starving for fat; it is :leath; be quick!

Scott's emulsion of cod-liver oil is the fat she can take. It vill save her.
